PREFACE.

THE little experience of the author as a teacher in one of the High Schools of Bombay has led to the publication of this small work. We have thought it a great pity that boys of such a tender age, as the learners of the Royal Reader No. IV generally are, should be burdened with the task of culling out appropriate words from a dictionary, a task which they cannot well perform. In order to remedy this evil and to save the time of teachers in dictating his pupils appropriate otherwords rejecting their wrong ones this attempt has been undertaken. It may be urged that students should be left to shift for themselves in this case particulary. Yes, by all means let students of a riper age submit themselvs to this most wholesome exercise, but such youngsters as have to go through this and the preceding numbers of the Royal Series must, we repeat, necessarily be provided with a meaning book.
